4.3.2 Employment

The Group is committed to the following employment practices:

- creating a safe and non-discriminatory workplace;
- equal employment opportunity and decisions on hiring, salary, benefits, advancement, termination or retirement, and will be based solely on an employee's ability to do the job. There will be no unfair or unlawful discrimination;
- the Group will comply with all relevant laws and regulations regarding employment;
- Personnel of the Group will comply with all relevant laws and regulations concerning their employment;
- the Group will promptly investigate all allegations of harassment, bullying, victimisation, or discrimination, and will appropriate corrective action where necessary;
- the Group will comply with all labour awards, collective agreements and individual employment contracts; and
- the Group will adopt good practice job evaluation methodology and generally position its remuneration structures at the average of the market. The Group will reward for exceptional performance through the use of appropriate incentives.

4.3.3 Conflict of interest

(a) Director conflicts:

At all times Directors must be able to act in the best interests of the Group. Where the interests of associates, personal interest of a Director or a Director's family may conflict with those of the Group, the Director must immediately disclose such conflict and either:

- (i) eliminate the conflict; or

- (ii) abstain from participating in any discussion or decision-making process in relation to the subject matter of the conflict, in accordance with section 195 of the Corporations Act.

Executive Directors must always be alert to the potential for a conflict of interest between their roles as executive managers and their fiduciary duty as Directors.

Directors will be guided by the Constitution of the Company and will ensure that they abide by the provisions in the Corporations Act governing conflicts of interest together with the Group's policies and guidelines. Where there is doubt, the matter should be raised with the Chairman of the Company.

(b) Personal conflicts:

Personal conflicts may arise in circumstances where some or all of a person's interests may affect or have the potential to affect, or have the perception of affecting a Personnel's ability to properly undertake their role, or make an appropriate decision or otherwise be divergent with the interests of the Group. Such interests could involve financial, personal or other interests of the Personnel or family member or associated person or entity of the Personnel.

Where a personal conflict arises or may arise, Personnel must disclose the nature of this conflict to their reporting manager or in the case of an Executive Director to the Chairman or in the case of the Chairman, to the full Board of the Company. The party reported to will ensure that measures are put in place to protect parties affected by the personal conflict. This may include:

- Ensuring that the conflicted or potentially conflicted Personnel does not participate in the relevant decision or activity;
- Ensuring that the conflict is disclosed to third parties affected by the conflict; and
- Ensuring that the conflicted or potentially conflicted Personnel is not the sole decision maker on the matter.

4.4 Directors

The following additional comments apply to Directors of the Company and aims to ensure Directors have a clear understanding of the Group's expectations of their conduct.

(a) Fiduciary duties

All Directors have a fiduciary relationship with the shareholders of the Company. A Director occupies a unique position of trust with shareholders, which makes it unlawful for Directors to improperly use their positions to gain improper advantage for themselves.

(b) Duties of Directors

Each Director must ensure that the Group is properly managed to protect and enhance the interests of all shareholders. To this end, Directors need to devote sufficient time and effort to understanding the Group's operations. Directors will ensure that shareholders and the ASX are informed of all material matters which require disclosure and will fully disclose any conflicts of interest.

4.5 Insider trading

Insider trading is a criminal and civil offence under the Corporations Act. A person who engages in insider trading may be subject to both civil and criminal penalties.

Information concerning the activities or proposed activities of the Group, which is not public and which could materially affect the Company's share price must not be used for any purpose other than valid Group requirements.

The Company's Securities Trading Policy outlines a policy in respect of trading in shares of the Company and is available on the Group's website:

www.strikeresources.com.au

4.6 Persons carrying out the functions of Managing Director/CEO and CFO

It is the responsibility of the persons carrying out the function of Managing Director/Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and Chief Financial Officer (CFO) to provide written assurances to the Board that in all material respects:

- the financial records of the Group have been properly maintained in accordance with section 286 of the Corporations Act;
- the financial reports submitted to the Board represent a true and fair view of the Group's financial position, and comply with Australian Accounting Standards;

- any other matters that are prescribed by the regulations for the purposes of section 295A(2) of the Corporations Act in relation to financial reports are satisfied; and
